BATAVIA, SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1812.

[NO. 8.]

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS the Honorable the Lieutenant Governor in Council having taken into consideration, that in order to ensure the purity and impartiality of the administration of Justice, nothing is of more importance than that the respective Fiscals, Bailiffs, and other public Officers of Justice and Police should be placed above the possibility of being influenced in the discharge of their duty by any view of pecuniary advantage or emolument beyond what is allowed to them by the liberal provision made for their monthly salaries under the British Government, and that it is to be expected that persons placed in such situations, will, from a sense of honor and duty, alone be sufficiently urged to a due and zealous discharge of their duties without any additional motive of immediate reward.

The Honorable the Lieutenant Governor in Council has been pleased to order and direct, and it is hereby ordered and directed accordingly, that all the former laws, regulations and customs, respecting fines and confiscations, whether in goods or money, which were heretofore, either in the whole or in part appropriated to the Officers of Justice, Fiscal, Water Fiscals, Bailiffs, and others, shall so far be altered and abolished, that from and after the publication of this Proclamation, the whole of the said fines and confiscations shall become the exclusive property of Government, and the amount thereof be paid into the Company's Treasury accordingly, saving however.

That all fines and confiscations which may be made in consequence of frauds committed against the conditions of the respective Revenue Farms, according to the existing regulations, shall still continue to be appropriated in part or in the whole to the Farmers as by the said regulations may be stipulated.—And, secondly.—That from the amount of such fines and confiscations the Courts of Justice or authority that may be competent to decide thereon shall be authorized, with the approbation of Government to allot such a part thereof to the informer, as according to the circumstances of the case may appear equitable and necessary, with an express provision, however, that none of the officers of Justice or Police shall be entitled to receive such reward on their own account. All fines and confiscations that may hereafter be made under the Revenue Regulations of Government, are in the first instance to be considered and decided in the Courts of Justice or by the Magistrates, as the case may be, but the sentence is not to be carried into execution, until the proceedings have been submitted and the decision has been confirmed by the Honorable the Lieutenant Governor.

That no persons may plead ignorance of this Proclamation, the same is directed to be published in the English and Dutch languages, in the Government Gazette, and affixed at the usual places at Batavia, Samarang and Sourabaya.

Given in the Council Chamber, at Batavia, this 16th day of April, 1812.

By me, the Lieutenant Governor of the Island of Java and its dependencies.

T. S. RAFFLES.
Signed by Order of the Honorable the Lieutenant Governor.

WY THOMAS STAMFORD RAFFLES, Luitenant Gouverneur in Rade, uitmakende het provisionele Gouvernement over het Eiland Java en dies onderhoorigheden, allen den genen die deze zullen zien ofte hooren lezen. Salut, doen te weten.

Dat, nademaal tot de verzekering van eene zuivere en onpartijdige Administratie der Justitie, niets van meerder belang zyn kan, dan dat de respectieve Fiscals, Bailluwen en andere Officiëren, het regt der Hooge Overigheid waarnemende, verheven werden boven alle verdenking, en boven de mooglykheid, van in de uitoeffening Hunner pligten, door eenige inlichten van eigen voordeel te worden geïnfluëncëerd; buiten het gene door eene liberale bepaling Hunner wettige tractementen, aan toegekend; en het buitendien met regt mag worden verwacht, dat ambtenaren van eer en welke die rang bekleden, welke aan de respectieve Officiëren van Justitie en Policie is toegekend, geene verdere motiven tot eene trouwe vervulling hunner pligten zouden behoeven, dan die uit een bezef hunner eigene waarde, en van de aangelegenheid hunner betrekkingen kunnen worden afgeleid.

Wy, Luitenant Gouverneur in Rade, na ingenomene rade en advis, hebben goedgevonden te ordonneren en te statuëren, gelyk geordonneerd en gestatueerd wordt by dezen;

Dat, met alteratie in zoo verre van alle vorige wetten, Placaten en usantien, waarbij eenige boeten, breuken, confiscatie of aanhalingen van goederen of gelden, geheel of gedeeltelyk waren toegewezen aan Officiëren van Justitie, Fiscaals, Waterfiscaals, Bailluwen of anderen, de voorschreven boeten en breuken, en het provenue van alle aangehaalde of geconfisqueerde gelden of goederen, van nu voortaan en na de Publicatie dezes, zullen worden toegewezen, en vallen ten voordeele van 's Lands Kas, met uitzondering echter;

Voor eerst, Dat de boeten, breuken en aanhalingen, welke ten gevolge van overtredingen en fraudes, gepleegd tegens de voorwaarden der respectieve verpachtingen, volgens de thans vigerende wetten, geheel of gedeeltelyk komen ten voordeele van de houder der pachtingen, op voor het vervolg op de bepaalde voet of geheel of gedeeltelyk aan hun zullen worden toegewezen.

Ten tweeden, dat uit het rendement van boeten, breuken en confiscatie, door den Regter, die competent zal zyn daar over te oordeelen, onder approbatie van het Gouvernement, zoodanig gedeelte aan den aanhaler of aangever zal mogen worden toegekend, als naar mate der omstandigheden, billyk en nuttig zal worden geoordeeld; onder deze uitdrukkelijke voorziening nochtans, dat almer eenig Officier van Justitie of Policie, ofschoon ook in persoon of door zyne dienaren zonder behulp van andere de aanhaling doende, als aanhaler of aangever zal mogen worden geconsidereerd.

Dat voorts alle boeten en confiscatie, welke onder de tegenswoordige verordeningen, op de gemeene middelen en op de uitgaande en inkomende regten, mogten voorvallen, ter eerste instantie, zullen staan ter cognitie en decisie van de Raden van Justitie, of van de Magistrate, na dat de aart der zake zal medebrengen, dan dat de sententie daar over te vellen, niet zal worden uitgesproken, nochte ter executie gelegd, voor en al eer de proces stukken ingezonden en de uitspraak bevestigd zy, by den Heere Luitenant Gouverneur.

Lasten en bevelen de President en Leden van den Hoogen Raad van Justitie te Batavia, van de Raden van Justitie te Samarang en Sourabaya, de respectieve Magistrate, en alle verdere Officiëren van Justitie en Policie, den inhoud dezes te achtervolgen en te doen achtervolgen, na dien Wy zulks ten algemeene nutte alzoo bevonden hebben te behooren.

En op dat niemand hiervan eenige ignorantie zoude kunnen voorwenden, zal deze, behalven in de Engelsche en Hollandsche, ook in de Javaasche, Maleidsche en Chinesche talen, worden gepubliceerd en geaffigeerd, ter plaatse gebruikelijck.

Gegeven in het Gouvernements huis op Molenvliet, dezen 16 April 1812.

Batavia ten Gouvernements Huize den

1 April 1811.

Ter ordonnantie van H. N. Hoog Edelheden den Heere Lieutenant Gouverneur en Raden. L. W. MYER. Holl. Sec.

By the late arrivals we find, that they were in the dark with respect to European intelligence, as long nearly in Bengal as we have been here. Amongst the provincial articles, the chief is the account of the fall of the strong and well-known fort of Kallinger; the last fortress which remained in the possession of the Natives within the Honorable Company's territories in Bundelkund. We regret our loss upon the occasion—Captain Frazer and Lieut. Nice, of H. M. 53d, killed with several wounded, which is severe; but when considered with the strength of the place, is trifling.

Kallinger and the fort situated within a few miles of it,—Adjeehur, which was taken about three years since, were as inaccessible as might well be supposed, both of them situated on the tops of high mountains, with defences formed with no small labour and expense; we know it at least with respect to Adjeehur. There are tanks always full of the best water within the walls, with every article which could be necessary for their defences surrounding them. Upon the whole they are such as, now sides are changed, we expect would resist the largest army.

A detail of the operations from the Mirror, will be given hereafter.

On Sunday, accounts were received at Buitenzorg, of the arrival of the James Drummond Transport, at Sourabaya, from Macassar, having on board Lieutenant Colonel Winkelman and the Garrison, Prisoners of War from that place.

His Majesty's Ship Hesper, James Drummond Transport, and Minto Schooner, arrived at Macassar on the 10th February, and on the 26th of that month that important settlement was formally taken possession of by the Commissioner, Captain Phillips, in the name of His Britannic Majesty, for the East India Company, in pursuance of the Capitulation.

Some difficulty we understand was experienced on the part of the Natives, but by the ability of Captain Phillips, whose long residence to the Eastward, and peculiar qualifications renders him perfectly competent to a negotiation with Malays, every thing was satisfactorily arranged, and at the date of the Drummond's departure, the whole of the Inhabitants had taken the oath of allegiance and the Country had testified its grateful sense of the British Rule.

Captain Grey, in the Minto, with an Officer appointed to the temporary command, had left Macassar for Copang, on the Island of Timor, for the purpose of establishing the Garrison there.

All the smaller dependencies of Macassar had been occupied.

We have much satisfaction in laying before our Readers, the following Proclamation, published by Captain Phillips, on his receiving charge of Macassar:—

PROCLAMATION.

The Commissioner notifies to the inhabitants of Macassar, that for the present the Laws and Customs of the place are confirmed and continued as heretofore existing under the French Government; but they will be liable to such modifications and alterations as the milder spirit of British Legislature, and the more enlightened policy of the British Government may from time to time dictate.

The British Government seeks earnestly the welfare of its subjects; and the Inhabitants of this settlement, having now, by taking the Oath of Allegiance to His Majesty the King of Great Britain and the Honorable the English East India Company, the happiness to Rank as British Subjects, the Commissioner has unaffected pleasure in assuring them of the fostering protection of his Government and the real satisfaction with which he individually will endeavour to promote their happiness generally, and as far as practicable their respective views.

English liberty, a liberty equally remote from that which disgraced the period of the French Revolution and the Arbitrary Government which has succeeded it, a system in which the freedom and restraint of the subject are balanced by sacred and moral ties, has happily, by the intervention of Providence in the success of the British Arms been extended over all India.

A small, but to Macassar, an important consequence of this is, that the trade to all the European Colonies to the Eastward of the Cape of Good Hope is at once open to the adventurous Merchants.

The advantages which have accrued upon the whole to all classes of people by having falling under the Dominion of the British Government, are so numerous and so obvious that the Commissioner feels it unnecessary to expatiate further upon them.

But in return for the brilliant prospect thus disclosed to the Inhabitants of Macassar, he expects decidedly from them, that orderly and peaceable demeanour, that faithful observance of the laws and loyal attachment to the Government which alone can ensure a continuance of its parental regard.

(Signed) RICHARD PHILLIPS,
Commissioner.

Fort Rotterdam,
March 7, 1812.

The Sultans of Cheribon, after being allowed to spend several days in Batavia, an indulgence never granted by the late Government, embarked in an Arab Ship for Cheribon on Saturday last. Lieutenant Homer, of the Bengal Establishment, proceeded in charge of the Sultans.

Previous to their departure from Batavia, their Highnesses paid a visit of ceremony to the Honorable the Lieutenant Governor, and took leave at the Council Chamber, at Molenvliet.

On this occasion a party of the Hussars paraded in front of the Government House, and from the soldier-like appearance of this Corps, they promise to do credit to the pains and ability with which they have been disciplined under the British Government.

Prince Prang Wedono with his three sons and a Detachment of his Corps, left Buitenzorg on the 8th Instant, on his return to Souracarta by land.

The fashionable circles have been and are likely to be more engaged than for some time past. The ball given by a few of the Staff and Officers at Ryswijk, certainly does not rank lowest in general estimation. Every thing was in the first style and greatest profusion, and could be excelled only by the attentions of the donors of the feast; which were unremitting. Mrs. Raffles was present, but did not join in the more light amusement of the dance to which she usually seemed so partial and to partake of with so much spirit and success.

A large party again assembled last night, to celebrate the Nuptials. The dancing as usual was continued after supper, till from the lateness of the hour, the Company saw the necessity to depart, which they did with great regret.

During the last week very satisfactory accounts have been received of the progress of the Expedition which lately sailed from Batavia, under Colonel Gillespie. The Troops were in high spirits, and expected to reach their destination in the course of the ensuing week.

On Wednesday arrived the ship Good Hope from the Sand-heads the 3d ultimo. Passengers Captain Wood and a detachment of the H. Company's European Regiment. The Hope we understand has safely arrived at the Eastward.

DEPARTURES FROM BATAVIA ROADS.

April 12.—Arab Ship Ramdan Russi, Said Abdullah, for Cheribon and Samarang.—Passengers, the Sultans of Cheribon and Suit.

Schooner Tiger, Booty, for Bantam, with Troops.

Ditto 15.—Cutter Dispatch, Foster, for Bengal, to touch at Malacca and Penang.—Passengers, nine French Prisoners of War.

DEATHS.

At Welterveeden, on Sunday last, Captain Palmer, late commander of the schooner Tiger, from Madras.

On Monday, Mr. Robert Scott, late supercargo of ditto.

At Calcutta, on the 3d of February last at her late Dwelling House, to the Northward of the Old Fort, the venerable Mrs. Frances Johnson, in the 87th year of her age, the oldest British Resident in Asia. This Lady whose name and character are no doubt well known to many of our Readers, was the second Daughter of Edward Crook, Esq. of Herefordshire; Governor of Fort St. David on the Coast of Coromandel, and was born of the 10th of April 1725. Mr. Crook previously to his return from India, was offered the Government of Fort St. George; but declined the appointment, on account of his age and infirm health, and returned to his native country, where he was received with high respect by the Court of Directors of the East India Company.

In 1738, Miss Frances Crook, in the 13th year of her age, married Perry Purple Temple Esq. Nephew to Mr. Braddyll, then Governor of Calcutta, by whom she had two children, both of whom died young; in about 5 years after her marriage she was left a widow by the death of Mr. Temple. She married secondly, James Altham, Esq. a Civil Servant on the Bengal Establishment.—This second union was of short duration; in twelve days after his marriage, Mr. Altham died of the small pox.

Mrs. Altham remained a widow for about two years, when she married William Watts Esq. then senior member of the Supreme Council, and subsequently appointed Governor of Calcutta; but at the time his appointment reached India, he was on his return to England. In 1756, when Calcutta was taken by Surajah Dowlah, Mr. Watts was chief of Moorshedabad, and both he and Mrs. Watts were in that city at the time of the surrender of Fort William. The Nabob, elated by his momentary success, threatened destruction to every British subject, male and female. Mr. Watts and his family were placed in custody at Moorshedabad, to await the arrival of the Nabob; but they were both favourites of the Begum, the mother of the Nabob Surajah Dowlah, and to her friendship they were indebted for their preservation, on this occasion. Mrs. Watts was placed under the same roof with the ladies of the Nabob's Court, to whom she was treated with the utmost delicacy, kindness, and respect. At the expiration of thirty-seven days, and while Surajah Dowlah still continued in the vicinity of Calcutta the Begum found a safe conveyance for Mr. Watts, and sent her under an escort by water to Chandernagore, where she was received with the most possible hospitality and attention from M. Lauss, the French Governor.

Her husband being still closely confined at Moorshedabad, Mrs. Watts addressed a memorial to her friend the Begum, mother of Surajah Dowlah, intreating her kind offices for the release of her husband. The Begum possessed great ascendancy over her son, the Nabob, and at her intercession he consented though with great reluctance, to the release of Mr. Watts, who was thus safely restored to his family.

Mrs. Watts had four Children by her third husband, Mr. Watts, one of whom died early infancy; with the other three, namely a boy and two girls, Mr. and Mrs. Watts about the year 1760, returned to England where the eldest girl, Amelia, a lady of great beauty and accomplishment, married the Right Honorable Charles Jenkinson, afterwards Earl of Liverpool, and father to the present Earl. The only son of Mr. and Mrs. Watts is the present Edward Watts, Esq. of Har-slope Park, in Berkshire. The second daughter, who is alive, married George Poyntz Ricketts, Esq. late Governor of Barbadoes. Mr. Watts died in England; and the state of his affairs in India requiring the presence of his widow, Mrs. Watts returned to Bengal about the year 1769; and on the 1st of June 1774, she gave her hand to the Reverend William Johnson, Principal Chaplain to the Presidency of Fort William—who returned to England in a few years after his marriage; and Mrs. Johnson continued ever since to reside in Calcutta, in a style of dignified hospitality.—Her manners were cheerful, polished, and highly pleasing. She abounded in anecdote; and possessing ease and affability of communication, her conversation was always interesting without any tendency to fatigue the hearer. She had a strong understanding, to which she superadded much and accurate observation.—Her views of life were correct, and the benevolence of her heart, and the warmth of her affections, continued unimpaired to the latest period of her life. Though prone to reflect and to discriminate, yet her judgment did not abridge, but served to guide and to exalt her benevolence. As a Christian, she was sound in her principles, and exemplary in her practice—in fine, her conduct in all the relations of life was such as to gain the universal respect and esteem of society.

She continued to enjoy excellent health till a few weeks ago, when she was seized with the illness that led to her dissolution. Her spirits were gay and cheerful, her faculties were unimpaired, and her personal strength was such that till within the last few months of her life, she was wont to join in the Country Dance at domestic parties.

Her remains were interred yesterday morning, in the ground belonging to St. John's Church. The funeral procession began at half past seven o'clock, and passed through Tank Square to the Eastern Gate of the Church Yard; the bell of St. John's tolling during the procession. The body was carried into the Church, and being placed before the pulpit, the following Anthem was sung by the Choir, accompanied by the Organ:

The righteous souls, that take their flight,
Far from this World of pain,
In God's paternal bosom blest,
For ever shall remain.
To minds unwise they seem to die
All joyful hope to cease?
Whilst they secur'd by faith repose,
In everlasting peace.
For at the great, the awful day,
When Christ descends from high,
With myriads of angelic saints,
They'll meet him in the sky.
Their God, their Judge, their mighty Lord
Shall pour redeeming grace,
And call them ever to behold
The brightness of his face.

The Reverend Dr. Ward then read the 39th and 90th Psalm, and the lesson from the 15th Chapter of the First Epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians. This part of the Service being ended, the body was carried to the North West angle of the Church-yard, immediately to the Northward of the monument erected over the grave of Admiral Watson, where a spot of ground for a cemetery, had been allotted for the deceased, during the Government of Lord Wellesley. Here the remaining part of the Service was performed, and the ceremony ended.

The funeral was attended by a numerous company, among whom were the Right Hon. the Governor General, in the State Coach with six horses, and a detachment of the Body Guard, the Hon. Sir Henry Russell, the Hon. John Lumsden, Esq. &c. &c. &c.

his way to the Presidency, Major John Anderson, of the European Regiment, justly respected as a zealous and meritorious Officer, and no less valued for the virtues of social and domestic life. He was a faithful friend, an amiable and engaging companion; honorable in his principles, warm and sincere in his affections; every view and act of his life shewed an upright manly character that was beloved in proportion as it became known. His death will be long and deeply lamented by his Friends, Brother Officers and Acquaintances: to his Family the loss is irreparable; for they are bereft not only of the affectionate Husband and tender Father, but of the protecting Friend in whom all their hopes of comfort and happiness were reposed.

At Puttighur, on the 2d ditto, Captain Goodwin Warner, of the 2d Bat. 22d Regt. N. I. To the principles of rectitude and honor that characterize the Gentleman, Captain Warner added those qualities which adorn private life, and which create esteem in the circle of social intercourse; zealous in the discharge of his duties as an officer, his professional character claimed respect, and his conduct in the sphere of private life gained him the esteem and regard of his brother officers, by whom his premature loss is sincerely and deeply lamented.

LINES.

WRITTEN BY MAJOR C. OF LORD WELLINGTON'S ARMY, TO A LADY, DATED PORTUGAL, 1810.

I've long, dear lady, try'd in vain
To write you in poetic strain,
In lieu of common prose;
But let me woo her as I will,
The truant Muse eludes me still,
And scarce a stanza flows.

Sometimes I seize the pen to write
The tale of Talavera's fight,
Where France and England bled?
To tell how British valour shone,
Record the dying soldier's groan,
And celebrate the dead.

And then within my bosom glow
The mingled throbs of joy and woe,
Of triumph, and of grief;
For then I glory in the hour
That check'd usurping France's pow'r,
And offer'd Spain relief.

And then, I long for dearthless lays
To sound our gallant Wellesley's praise,
And deeds of wonder tell;
And then, I feel a soldier's pride
In having fought by Sherbrooke's side,
And where Mackenzie fell!

Fond dream: another moment's thought
Is with the mighty slaughter fraught,
And all my ardour dies;
For, of Great Britain's gallant train
Five thousand bled, and bled in vain,
For cowardly allies!

Thus changing still, to nothing fixt,
Of veering themes my song is mixt,
Of glory, and of grief:
One hour I feel a poet's fire,
The next, I drop the listless lyre,
And burr the scribbled leaf.

Yet, though this wayward be the lay,
Hope, ever steady, ever gay,
Pictures a prospect fair;
She homewards paints a wish'd for rest,
(By many a social circle blest,
And whispers "Peace is there."

I OWE YOU ONE.

CHLOE, when'er her spouse his wit began,
Was wont to say, "My dear, I owe you one!"
Begetting twins, and to his rib's text true;
Strephon replied, "My love, I owe you two."

BENGAL EXTRACTS.

We have been obligingly favored with a Calcutta paper of the 22d of February, the latest that we have heard of having arrived, from which is extracted the following:—

On Thursday morning, Mr. Derriex, Supra-cargo of the American ship Atlanta, Captain James Wickham, reached town from Kedgee, announcing the arrival of that ship in the river on Tuesday evening, from Rio Janeiro, which place she left on the 6th December.

The Atlanta sailed from Philadelphia on the 2d June, touched at Pernambuco, and lay at Rio Janeiro two months before her departure for this port. It appears that accounts had been received at the Brazils from England down to the 17th Sept. and newspapers to the beginning of that month announced the agreeable intelligence that His Majesty's health had considerably improved since the date of our last intelligence; it being particularly stated, that the had of late enjoyed lucid intervals, and was able occasionally to take exercise.

No material change had taken place in the posture of affairs.—The Negotiations with America induced the hope, that an amicable adjustment of all existing differences would shortly ensue.—Mr. Forster the British Minister Plenipotentiary had arrived in America in the latter end of July or beginning of August, and held several conferences with the Secretary of State, Mr. Monroe.—Congress, in consequence as it was presumed of these interviews, had been directed to assemble a month earlier than usual, and were to meet on the 1st of November: it was generally believed that the propositions made by Mr. Forster to the American Government, held out the pleasing prospect of the suspension of the Non-Intercourse Act.

A Court of Enquiry had been ordered to investigate the conduct of Commodore Rogers.

It is ascertained that public opinion respecting the destination of Sir Joseph Yorke's Squadron proved erroneous: the Admiral having returned to England in the beginning of August, with the homeward bound East India Fleet which left St. Helena in June.

Several vessels had arrived from Lisbon bringing accounts from the Seat of war in the Peninsula to the month of September.

With the exception of the loss of Figueras which had surrendered through famine, no event of consequence had occurred. The Duke of Dalmatia, Soult, had been obliged to direct his attention to the Province of Murcia and abandon his position on the Gaudiana.—Marmont had marched towards the North with the intention of uniting with the force of Marshal Beresford and attacking the Spanish General Santocildes at the head of the forces of Galicia and adjoining provinces.

Lord Wellington had however frustrated this object by rapidly regaining the former position in front of Almeida.—In the mean time a considerable French force advanced to the port of Ayamonie.

Very considerable re-inforcements passed through the Pyrenees in the latter part of the Summer, and the reduction of Tarragona and Figueras left a large disposable force to be employed in the recovery of places which had been abandoned by the former concentration of the armies under Marmont and Soult in the vicinity of Badajoz.

The Provinces of Galicia and Asturias, were in the exclusive possession of the Spaniards, who were in great want of arms and Ammunition for the equipment of the recent levies.

Lord Wellington had recourse to the former system of defensive warfare, taking advantage of the strongest positions—and the French were fully occupied in providing for the subsistence of their most advanced corps for which they drew supplies from St. Sebastian, Pampeluna, and Bayonne—they had suffered greatly from the daring activity of the Guerilles, who had cut off many convoys and destroyed all small detachments and straggling parties. Four thousand troops of the Garrison of Figueras, a few days previous to the surrender of that important fortress, had made a sortie with the intention of covering the approach of a large convoy, but were repulsed and failed in securing the desired object. The Garrison suffered the utmost extremities of famine; before the surrender took place, every animal within the walls had been consumed—and during the last two days the troops were utterly destitute of food.

The position of Lord Wellington, we have not been able exactly to ascertain—the French were advanced and completely covered Badajoz.

King Joseph was at Madrid, and it is believed that Massena and Junot had returned to Spain.

The French Generals finding the opposition of the natives on all occasions so extremely harassing, had fallen on the singularly inhuman plan of sending into France the male inhabitants of all captured places.

We have not been able to gain any certain intelligence of the state of affairs in the North of Europe, but have reason to think that the trade with the Baltic was not yet revived.

The inhabitants of Monte Video had determined to adjust their differences with the Government of Buenos Ayres, by a reference to the Cortes in the Mother Country, and the Governor had been arrested and sent to Cadiz.

The Carracas were under the dominion of the late revolutionary party.

The trade to the Brazils seems to have greatly disappointed general expectation—many ships sold cargoes at unfavourable prices, and proceeded to the West Indies in ballast.

Whilst the Atlanta remained at Rio Janeiro, a Prince of the House of Braganza was born, and great rejoicings took place in consequence.

Three hundred persons belonging to the Court Establishment of the Prince of Brasil, arrived at Rio Janeiro in October.

Admiral De Courcey in the Foudroyant, was lying at Rio Janeiro, with two Frigates.

The new Emperor of Hayti had been proclaimed by the title of Christophe the First, and his dignity was fully supported by numerous titles of nobility bestowed on his principal adherents; the Chief Military Commanders were created Marshals, and a Legion of Honour instituted for the reward of merit. Petion and Rigaud still opposed the complete ascendancy of his power over the Island. One of his Imperial Majesty's Vessels of War having fired into an English cruiser and killed three men, a Squadron consisting of two seventy-fours and several Frigates were to sail from Jamaica in the month of July, with orders to capture every ship bearing his flag, and blockade the principal ports until ample atonement should be made for this outrage.

The Atlanta reached Acheen Head in fifty-three days—was greatly delayed in the Bay by calms, and spoke no vessel on her passage.

She has brought a small quantity of Specie, some wines and marine stores.

Captain Hodgson, 1st Battalion Bengal Volunteers.
Lieutenants Parke, Turner and Medwin, 1st Bengal Volunteers; Mr. Assistant Surgeon Watson and a Detachment of Volunteer Sepoys.

On Sunday the ship Charlton, from the Isle of France the 7th ultimo, arrived at Kedgee. This ship was freighted by the Government of the Isle of France, for the purpose of conveying thence to Calcutta, the remaining officers and men of the 1st Battalion of Bengal Volunteers. The following officers of that corps have arrived here with the Charlton.

Major W. Barton, Commanding,
Captain J. C. Carter,
Lieutenants W. H. K. Brown, Roberts, Turner, Stubbs and Crichton,
Ensigns Parsons, Smith, J. N. Wilson, and H. F. Wroughton,

Mr. Assistant Surgeon Paterson and about 600 Volunteer Sepoys.

The Reverend Mr. Thomson has also arrived from the Mauritius with the Charlton.

The letters from the Mauritius by the above arrivals convey little or no public intelligence of interest. The Acteon sloop of war, Captain Cator, which sailed from Calcutta for England, on the 1st of October, touched at the Isle of France, and after a short stay sailed in prosecution of her voyage.

The Galatea frigate, Captain Losack, left Port Louis, on the 24th of November. Her destination was not known. She was supposed to be destined for Bengal.

The Astrea frigate had gone to Bourbon for the purpose of conveying his Excellency the Governor from thence to Port Louis.

The Honorable the Governor had been induced to proceed to Bourbon, in consequence of an insurrection of the slaves, of which an account was brought by express from St. Denis to the Mauritius, on the 17th November. Mr. Farquhar embarked from Port Louis on the 19th and reached St. Denis on the 21st of November; but before his arrival the insurrection had been entirely quelled, and tranquillity and good order re-established. We are sorry to add, that a number of the Colonists had been assassinated by the insurgent slaves. The ring-leaders and principal parties had been apprehended, and would, no doubt, be brought to punishment.

Upon her return to Port Louis, the Astrea frigate was to be dispatched to Bengal for a supply of treasure, for the service of Mauritius and Bourbon.

The homeward-bound Bengal fleet which sailed on the 17th ultimo, consisting of the following ships; viz. Castle Eden, Carnatic, Rose, Metcalfe, Union, and Marchioness of Exeter, under convoy of the Illustrious, 74, were seen by the Charlton on the 1st current, one degree to the Southward of the line, standing on a South East course, all apparently well and with fine weather.

The Bengal Anna from the Mauritius, the 23d November, arrived at Madras on the 4th current. By that opportunity Mrs. Cockburn, A. Cockburn, Esq. of the Bengal Civil Service, and Captain Roughsedge, commanding the Ramghur Battalion, have returned to India from the Mauritius.

The Hope, Captain Collins, bound to Java and New South Wales, will leave Saugor on Friday or Saturday next.

The following passengers proteed by the Hope to Batavia.

Mrs. Butler.
Mrs. Brooker.
Miss Hunter.
Major Butler, Artillery.
Ensign Hunter, His Majesty's 86th Regiment.
Mr. Assistant Surgeon Wooly.
Messrs. Williams, Gelson, Wattleworth, and Horan.
The ship Caledon, will sail in the course of next week, for the Isle of France.

The late Cape of Good Hope papers notify the following appointments:

Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Reynell, to be Private Secretary to his Excellency the Governor and Commander in Chief.

Lieut. Colonel J. Graham to be Commissioner on the part of his Majesty for all Civil and Military affairs in the districts of Graaf Reinet, Uitenhage and George.

The Revd. Mr. Robert Jones, Chaplain to the British Civil Establishment at the Cape.

His Excellency General Cradock, the Governor of the Cape, has remitted all duties upon the exportation of articles, the growth, produce, or manufacture of southern Africa.

Two large bodies of Pindarries having collected on the banks of the Nerbuddah, with the view as was supposed of plundering Nagpore, the Jaulnah force, under the command of Colonel Conran, marched the beginning of last month towards Kollapeor and Amratsur; upon their approach the Pindarries hastily fled; and it is supposed that Colonel Conran's force will return immediately to Jaulnah. Our last letters which are of the 7th current, left them encamped at Amratsur, waiting further orders.

We learn by our latest letters from Bundelcund that the army under command of Colonel Martindell, came before the Fort of Callinger on the 19th ultimo, and occupied a position within a mile and a half of the hill on which the Fort stands. The garrison seemed peaceably disposed; several of our officers approached within 200 yards of the works, and had an excellent view of the defences, particularly of the North East face, and were permitted to return without molestation.

At the date of our latest accounts from the army before Callinger, the negotiations were still going on between the Agent of the Right Honorable the Governor General and the Kelladar; and it was thought probable that they would lead to the surrender of the Fort. This opinion is supported by considering the weakness of the garrison, which is not suited for any lengthened or effectual resistance; but as the garrison mounted some guns on the bastions of the Fort, on the 18th ultimo, it has been thence conjectured that they are resolved not to surrender.

The Fort is represented as strong from its situation, and difficulty of approach, but in these respects it is by no means so formidable as stated by former reports; the hill does not exceed 740 or 750 feet in height, and the artificial defences are of little consideration;—and when we add to this, that the actual strength of the garrison does not exceed 600 men; we can with difficulty believe that the Kelladar will have the folly to attempt to oppose the powerful force by which he is menaced, in the event of his refusal to surrender.

The small hill named Callunguree is within 800 yards or breaching distance from the Fort. This hill is unfortified, but before the arrival of Colonel Martindell's army, it was occupied by a small detachment from the Fort; this detachment was withdrawn on the British army taking its position in the vicinity. On the 19th of last month, Colonel Martindell ordered this hill to be occupied by a working party, supported by three Companies of Europeans—the order was carried into effect, without opposition, and the working party were employed in facilitating the ascent for the passage of a few 6 pounders to the top of the hill—from thence, should it become necessary, the Fort may be battered, or Shrapnell's shells thrown into it with great effect. The town which is large and well built, is between the British incampment and the hill.

View of the British military force now in Bundelcund, assembled under command of Colonel Martindell:—

PENANG GAZETTE, Dec. 21.

In our paper of the 30th ultimo, we had the satisfaction of laying before our readers, extract of a letter from Macao, giving an account of His Excellency the Viceroy of Canton, having honored that city with a visit; we now with much pleasure publish extract of a letter from a valued correspondent at Canton, and trust that they will feel equal gratification with ourselves, in the knowledge that the Chinese, as appears from the highly honorable testimony exhibited therein, are likely to be on a more friendly footing with the British nation:

"On the morning of the 6th Nov. the several ships at Whampoa, fresh painted, were bedecked with streamers of every nation, for the reception of His Excellency the Viceroy; and about eight o'clock, the Captains of those belonging to the Honorable Company and the India Merchants, set off to meet him. On reaching His Excellency's State Barge, the gentlemen were most graciously received, and every one knighted in due form, Knights of the Purse.* On His Excellency's appearing in view from the Shipping, a general salute of nineteen guns from all the ships commenced.

"The Honorable Company's ship Perseverance, Captain Tweedale, to which His Excellency proceeded, was elegantly fitted up on the occasion, with an accommodation ladder covered with baize and bunting, the poop cleared of every thing, and covered also with baize and carpets, the after part elevated by a small platform, on which was placed a table for His Excellency and a select few; he sat in the centre, with the Governor of the City, the Commander-in-Chief of the Forces, and the Criminal Judge, on his right—Mr. Elphinstone, the Chief Supercargo, Sir George Staunton, Bart. Captains Briggs and Broughton, R. N. on his left. Two other tables, nearly the whole length of the poop, on which was arranged with much taste every delicacy, were placed for the remaining part of the company, which was numerous.

"His Excellency on reaching the Perseverance, was received by Mr. Elphinstone, and Captains Briggs and Broughton, of the Royal Navy, and conducted to his seat, through a street formed by a company of the Royal Marines, with presented arms, the band of the Indefatigable playing God save the King, and Rule Britannia. On His Excellency being seated, which was some time after his arrival on board, he began distributing the presents, consisting of Silks, Sattins, Teas, &c. after which the company sat down to breakfast.

"His Excellency appeared to be between fifty and sixty years of age; of a middling stature, with mild prepossessing countenance; rather infirm in health, and apparently under a course of gill pills, which he recommended to every one, and gave a handful to each.

"After remaining on board about an hour,

* A ceremony performed by hanging an embroidered silk purse, to the third or fourth button hole of the coat.

he departed, with the same ceremony as on his arrival. In the evening the company dined with Captain Briggs, and returned to Canton about eight o'clock.

"This is the first instance of such condescension having taken place: most people are very sanguine as to the good effect it may produce, in promoting a greater degree of intimacy between the two nations, and of course benefiting our commerce, by removing the restrictions we now labor under. However, His Excellency's Viceroyalty will expire in a few months—that his successor may be equally favourably inclined, is most fervently wished!"

Yesterday the brig Tay, Captain D. Smith, came in from Borneo and Lingin.

The Patty ul Kair, Captain Holland, sailed for Madras, on Sunday last,—passengers, Mrs. Bunkal, Johannes Nareis, Esq. Messrs. Bunkal and Woodford.
